

ALL CAPS - Title

Bold - Important words

Regular sized words - poem

BEAUTY IS IMPERMINENT:

Ironically,

Your best friend will be your worst enemy

Your success will end in failure

Your best quality will be your greatest insecurity

And You will be your greatest fear

But in the end,

Your worst enemy will be your best friend

Your failure is because of success

Your greatest insecurity is your best quality

And your greatest fear is You

So, you see, A thing isn't beautiful because it lasts.

Because nothing lasts forever.

It takes time to realize true beauty.

But you can control your fear.

Keep flapping your wings because no matter how many times you fall, there will come a time when you realize that you could fly all along.

A WORLD OF MY OWN:

Have you ever been in your own little world?

Where everything twists and turns and screams and whirls?

Do kites fly in the sky always overhead?

Do you know that you're perfectly safe in bed?

When you have your dream life,

No suffering and strife

Just happiness, joy, and content.

Where it almost never rains

No hurt and no pain

When you're guarded by an invisible fence.

I've never seen this world

Though, I hope that I will

Someday when I'm grown and old

But for now I will stay

With my mind at bay

To wonder the secrets it holds.