

One time I was walking down main street when I saw a dog. The dog had an orange collar on. His name was Gilbert (gilly for short) I flipped the collar over and saw a very small button. I didn't know what it did. So obviously I was gonna push it. I mean what's the worst that could happen. I pushed it. All of a sudden Gilly spins around like 200 times, super fast. After he spun around there was a watch . The watch said HELLO on it. The screen then turned black. There was then a red flashing arrow directing me to move forward. All of a sudden a leash popped out of Gilly's collar. I took the leash and we started walking forward. All day long the watch led me everywhere. Finally it led me and Gilly to the train station. An online ticket popped right up on the watch. That night me and Gilly slept on the train. The next Morning the watch woke me and Gilly up at 5am. About a half and hour later we were at our stop. The watch led Gilly and I to an elevator . We went down the elevator. Finally It Led us to a Tile wall with a beautiful painting of Violets all over it. The first thing I tried was trying to find a button. I sat down because I was too tired for that watch. Just as I sit down the watch has a message on it that says " PUSH ON THE TILE WITH THE BLACK DOT ON IT ". I push on the tile and it.....
